The Center for Border & Global Journalism presents

Besieged Borders

From Syria to Mexico, experts analyze the global crisis of refugees, migrants

• When: Thursday, Feb. 18, 5:30-6:30 p.m., a panel discussion with Rod Nordland, Perla Trevizo and Mort Rosenblum; reception to follow
• Where: AME S202 auditorium at the Aerospace and Mechanical Engineering Building, 1130 N. Mountain Ave. (northeast corner of Speedway and Mountain)

Rod Nordland
The New York Times
Nordland has worked as a reporter in more than 150 countries and for The Times in the Middle East, Europe and South Asia. His honors include sharing a Pulitzer Prize for news, finalist for a Pulitzer in international reporting, two George Polk awards and several Overseas Press Club awards.

Perla Trevizo
Arizona Daily Star
Trevizo covers immigration and social, economic and security issues on the Arizona/Sonora border. She worked for Spanish and English-language media outlets in Texas, Tennessee and Spain and won awards for separate series on Guatemalans and Burundi refugees.

Mort Rosenblum
Moderator
Rosenblum, professor for the UA School of Journalism, has covered stories on seven continents since the 1960s. He was editor of the International Herald Tribune; special correspondent for The Associated Press; and AP bureau chief in Africa, Southeast Asia, Argentina and France.