Faculty Kudos- Week of July 27, 2015

Professor Kim Newton won first place in the photojournalism category at the International Art Exhibition and Competition Nit De L’Art S’Arracó in S’Arracó, Mallorca, Spain on July 30, 2015. The winning image, taken in Kashgar, China, shows a Uighur Muslim woman looking at a Polaroid picture. Newton was invited to enter the International exhibition and competition while visiting Mallorca this summer following his teaching of the Photojournalism in Italy study abroad program in Orvieto, Italy. The winning image can be viewed here under “Fotos:” https://es-la.facebook.com/nitdelart
More information on the exhibit will be available here after Aug. 1: http://nitdelartsarraco.com/

Student Kudos

Alexa Morelli, an undergraduate student at the j-school recently published an article in the Odyssey titled, “What I Learned Being the Daughter Of Police Officers." The Odyssey is a student based publication run by the Olympia Media Group.
http://theodysseyonline.com/arizona/learned-daughter-police-officers/123804

Kendal Blust recently published an article in the Tico Times News titled, “Protecting life in Ostional: The survival of 2 species.” Blust is a Journalism graduate student who participated in a Study Abroad class in Costa Rica this summer with Prof. Celeste Gonzalez de Bustamante.