

INTERNATIONAL JOURNALISM TRAVEL AWARD

<http://journalism.arizona.edu/studyabroad>

The School of Journalism has a $2,000 award available for students interested in careers in international journalism.

Criteria

- Must be used for a study abroad program or a journalism internship abroad.
- Preference will be given to graduate students, although undergraduate majors who have completed their junior year and will be returning to campus for at least one semester also may apply. Undergrads should check with the director before applying.

Process

- To apply, write a letter addressed to the director explaining your interest in international journalism and the ways in which this travel award would help you fulfill your goals in this field.
- Include a résumé with your letter.
- Materials should be dropped off in the journalism office, Rm. 334.
- The winner will be selected by a faculty committee and the school director.

Deadline: Feb. 15, 2015.

The award is made possible by a gift to the school from an anonymous donor.
