Public and Professional Service Activities

2. List online examples of professional and public service activities undertaken by members of the faculty in the past six years (before the self-study year). Limit to five examples per faculty member. The unit has the option of providing a complete list online. Do not include service to the unit or institution; this information should be presented in Standard 1.

2016-17

- The school’s Center for Border and Global Journalists, in conjunction with The International Center for Journalists and Border Journalism Network, coordinated a border safety workshop for journalists in the United States and Mexico.
- David Cuillier won the Wells Key Award, the highest honor given by the Society of Professional Journalists for service to the organization and profession. He also was elected to the board of the National Freedom of Information Coalition.
- Geoff Ellwand has been a frequent contributor to Canadian Lawyer for the past several years.
- Shahira Fahmy was an invited speaker at a workshop “News Images and Icons in the Digital Age: Photojournalism in Transition,” at Tel Aviv University, funded by the Israel Science Foundation.
- Mike McKisson helped coordinate the second annual News Hack Arizona, in conjunction with the Arizona Daily Star, which brought together 80 journalists, students, and teachers from throughout the region to create news stories based on data gathered from sensors. He also coordinated the first News Hack Arizona, as well, in spring 2016, focused on data visualization.
- Kim Newton met with South Korean President Moon Jae-in in Seoul to present one of his historic 1987 photographs of the South Korean Democracy Movement.
- Jeannine Relly spoke at the Institute for International Journalism at Ohio University’s Research Workshop for the Study of the U.S. Institute’s for Scholars, U.S. State Department. She also spoke on “International Perspectives of News media and RTI” at the Sri Lanka Press Institute.
- Susan Swanberg served on Spring 2017 panels about “Worldwide War Coverage in the 20th Century” at the International Association of Literary Journalism Studies in Halifax, Nova Scotia; on “Ecocriticism” at the Southwest Popular/American Culture Association conference in New Mexico; on the “Trouble with Propaganda” at the Joint Journalism and Communication History Conference in New York; and on “Telling Stories About the Manhattan Project and its Legacies” at a conference in Hanford, Washington.

2015-16

- The school helped conceive, plan, and coordinate the College of Social and Behavioral Science’s “A Conversation on Privacy” featuring Edward Snowden, Noam Chomsky, and Glenn Greenwald, which packed the university’s Centennial Hall and was watched online through The Intercept by more than 300,000 people worldwide.
- David Cuillier testified before the U.S. Senate Judiciary Committee regarding the Freedom of Information Act, following other congressional testimony in 2010 and 2014.
He also testified before the Arizona Legislature in spring 2017 regarding student press freedoms.

- Geoff Ellwand spoke on a panel at the Alberta Civil Liberties Research Centre at the University of Calgary, on “The Reasonable Limits on Free Expression in Canada.”
- Linda Lumsden served as a commentator on “The Nation in Southern History” for the Southern Historical Association in Little Rock, Arkansas.
- Mike McKisson aided news organizations throughout Arizona with new technology in news gathering, including drone footage for the Arizona Center for Investigative Reporting and KUAT. His work ultimately led to the creation in Fall 2017 of Digital News Production and Consultation Services.
- Jeannine Relly served as head of the AEJMC International Communication Division, and previously as vice-head, research chair, teaching standards chair, and professional freedom and responsibility chair.
- Bill Schmidt and Nancy Sharkey launched the Loft Theater Journalism on Screen series, featuring high-profile journalists engaging with the public. Films have included Absence of Malice with screenwriter Kurt Luedtke, Selma with Diane McWhorter, All the King’s Men with David Cay Johnston, The Insider with 60 Minutes producer Lowell Bergman, and Spotlight with former Boston Globe Publisher Richard Gilman.
- Carol Schwalbe was elected to the AEJMC Standing Committee on Teaching (highest vote-getter in the election).
- Susan Swanberg has been a frequent SciLogs Blogger to The Tenacious Telomere and The Fourth Helix. She also spoke on “How to make your public health stories come alive” at the annual meeting of the Association of Public Health Laboratories.

2014-15

- The Center for Border and Global Journalism organized the panel “Reportin in a more Dangerous World,” featuring James and Diane Foley, the parents of slain journalist James Foley; Terry Anderson, the former foreign correspondent held hostage in Beirut for seven years; and David McCraw, attorney for the New York Times. The event drew more than 500 people and was broadcast on C/SPAN. Bill Schmidt then began coordinating an annual spring 5K student run to raise money for the James K. Foley Foundation.
- Faculty assisted with the New York Times Student Journalism Institute, hosted by the school four times.
- Celeste González de Bustamante and Jeannine Relly, in collaboration with the Institute for Justice in Journalism, helped organized a “Migrahack” for journalists covering immigration.
- Kim Newton was invited to take part in a symposium on “The Changing Landscape of Journalism and Ethics through Theatre, Film and Photography” in Prescott, Arizona.
- Bill Schmidt developed the Tucsonhoods blogsite for his reporting students to provide news for specific neighborhoods in Tucson. The students teamed with multimedia-class students to create graphics, maps, and other interactive features.
- Susan Swanberg organized the workshop, “With Conviction: Reporting on Science in the Courtroom,” funded by the National Association of Science Writers, to discuss how journalists can identify the use of junk science in trials.
• Maggy Zanger was recommended to serve as a Fulbright Specialist by the Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs of the U.S. State Department and the Institute of International Education’s Council for International Exchange of Scholars. She also was an invited speaker on the “Kurdish Media” at a conference on Freedom of the Press in the Middle East, sponsored by Boston College and the Peace Islands Institute.

2013-14

• David Cuillier served as national president of the Society of Professional Journalists and on the boards of the SDX Foundation and Arizona First Amendment Coalition.

• Shahira Fahmy was awarded a Fulbright Specialist Grant to speak in Ethiopia for “The U.S. Mission to the African Union for the Specialist Project with the UN Economic Commission for Africa.

• Celeste González de Bustamante served as head of the AEJMC International Communication Division, and previously as vice-head, research chair, and Markham Competition chair.

• Kevin Kemper founded the Native American Journalists Association Legal Hotline.

• Mort Rosenblum spoke on a panel “Reporting Border Conflict” with journalists Giannina Segnini and Ricardo Sandoval Palos, sponsored by the Center for Border and Global Journalism.

• Bill Schmidt conducted workshops for Human Rights Watch in New York City.

2012-13

• David Cuillier began writing the FOI Files column for the Investigative Reporters and Editors’ IRE Journal, a quarterly magazine for members (still writing the column at present).

• Shahira Fahmy was the invited keynote speaker for “Visual Framing in Press Photography: Prominent Trends and Methodological Challenges at the Hans-Bredow-Institute for Media Research, University of Hamburg.

• Kevin Kemper was a research fellow for the Native American Journalists Association, and a research fellow for the Sequoyah National Research Center.

• Linda Lumsden served on the Board of Directors of the American Journalism Historian Association, and chaired the AJHA Research Committee.

• Jeannine Relly co-organized three panels at the AEJMC conference for the International Communication Division.

2011-12

• Shahira Fahmy began service as associate editor for Mass Communication and Society.

• Celeste González de Bustamante began her presidency of the Border Journalism Network (to the present).

• Susan Knight spoke on “Apprenticeship: Making the Internship Meaningful,” at The Mentoring Institute, University of New Mexico.

• Linda Lumsden served as a moderator on two panels at the International Conference on Social Sciences and Humanities conference at the National University of Malaysia in Bangi, Malaysia, as well as at the International Conference on Journalism and Mass Communications in Singapore.
• Mike McKisson participated in a panel discussion for the Knight Digital Media Center News Entrepreneurship boot camp, and for the Media-Alliance Alliance for Community Media Conference.

• Jeannine Relly organized four panels for the AEJMC conference on behalf of the International Communication Division, and moderated a panel on “State of E-Government at the Municipal Level” at the Global Conference on Transparency Research at Rutgers University.

• Bill Schmidt continued to serve as a board member for the Maynard Institute for Journalism Education, promoting diversity in journalism.

• Carol Schwalbe served as editor of the Journal of Magazine and New Media Research 2009-2013 for the AEJMC Magazine Division. She also has served as division webmaster 2008 to the present.

• Maggy Zanger acquired a $1 million grant from the U.S. State Department to establish a journalism department at the University of Nangarhar in Afghanistan, aided by multiple faculty members.