2020 Journalism Internships in the U.S.

The Wall Street Journal internship program is an opportunity for college juniors and seniors and graduate students to be fully immersed in our Pulitzer Prize-winning newsroom, working with some of the best journalists in the world.

The 10-week paid internship program offers hands-on work experience and one-on-one mentorship, plus orientation and tailored training sessions. Interns are treated like full-time staff members and are encouraged to pitch their own stories and projects. The summer 2019 interns reported front-page news, created interactive graphics, edited photo projects, wrote colorful features, produced videos, curated and published our journalism across platforms, and much more.

We strive to be a welcoming, diverse newsroom. You don’t need to be an expert in business or finance to apply, but you do need to be curious and eager to learn.

Interns are paid $900 per week. The program has a storied history as a pipeline to a full-time job at the Journal, whether immediately or down the road.

Apply at wsj.jobs or dowjones.jobs for winter and summer internships by Nov. 1, 2019.

Reporting (multiple cities)
Graphics
Video
Photo Editing
Data Reporting
Data Science
Product Design
WSJ. Magazine
Podcast/Audio
F. James Pensiero Reporting Internship
Health & Science Reporting (Winter: Starting Jan./Feb. 2020)

For questions not answered here or in the postings, please email internships@wsj.com.