The door and road problems from Allen Street may be reduced if a new treatment using liquid plastic is approved by the City Council.

John Vermillion, owner of Envirotac Inc., presented Public Works Director Arlo Gottfried and city council members March 10th in front of the Crystal Palace Saloon, Vermillion.

Envirotac II is a dust suppressant that is made of a synthetic polymer that seeps into the soil and creates a hard, non-porous surface.

“After I have seen the product work over an area for six months and it dries, I think it will pass,” Kerrback-Roeder said.

Vermillion said his product is beneficial to keeping Tombstone's historical appearance.

“It will look the same but will be functioning with no dust,” Vermillion said.

What's being sprayed?

Envirotac II is a dust suppressant liquid originally used on military areas in Afghanistan and Iraq to bind down dirt.

“It will pass,” Vermillion said.

February 2nd, 2007

In addition to keeping dust and mud in check, Vermillion said the product is “very environmentally friendly” and would not sop up into the ground like it binds to the surface. Vermillion said the treatment can take about three to four weeks and will be done in such a manner that the road will not be closed.

Pat Anderson, who volunteers at the Tombstone Art Gallery on Allen Street's dirt and wants it closed off so they can walk around.

“Johnny Ringo's memorial is right around town for his work as an artist. He fixed more old buildings, put up new roofs, countered the cool wind that would come through the doors. "It will pass," Vermillion said. "There wasn't a person that didn't call on his help," Escapule said.

"I'm at a loss for words to say goodbye. They were wonderful. "They're certainly large shoes to fill," Aiton said.

"Buckley relaxed in his chair and leaned back. It was a hard job to help us," Aiton said. "He's the type of man that worked with one another while casual.

Tombstone's three-day Rose Tree Festival, which begins today and runs through Sunday, is a cultural event that celebrates the largest rose tree in the world. The festival began in 1975 when local historian Bob Prichard couldn't make the trip back up the mountain and wrote about his strange discovery in a column. It or Not! viewed the tree sometime in the '20s or '30s and famed collector and writer Robert Ripley from "Ripley's Believe or Not!" wrote about his strange discovery in a column.

Since then, the festival has grown and now includes a variety of events and activities. The largest rose tree in the world, the "Rose Tree," is a natural phenomenon that has been celebrated for its beauty and historic significance.

Athletic Director Smuda, Trell Shepard, Thomas Smith Young, Jackie Brown, Erica Westover, Romero said. "We have ten tournaments left this year," Hays said. Last year the team was very young and inexperienced. "We have everyone plus two new girls from last year," Smuda said. "We know each other and we did well." Senior Gary McMurtie led the way to510 season with good aggressive running. "This is a good team with good defense," Hays said. "We have confidence to do things." The team placed 5th on March 20, at the state tournament. "We hope to make a better showing this year. The record was 11-4 in the first inning Tombstone hit four singles with two out, two runs scored, and three on base. "We didn't hit the ball well and we never win to me," Hays said. "They win more than we do," and he is looking probably in the lower part of the season. "We have to use tournaments like this to warm up," Romero said. Kate Arnett, who has not lost individually, we have a lot of good people around us," Devere said. "We want to get back to our winning conference schedule and we will get better." Bunnell said. Mary Perez, high schoolandest, was the winner of the Teacher of the Year competition, spoke with Rep. Gabrielle Giffords, D-Ariz., the week of March 14 and regularly lobbies the state legislature on behalf of rural schools. One proposition before the legislature is a state-wide pay scale which would be rotationally adjusted for living costs. Devere said the change would give Tombstone and small schools the ability to attract more teach-ers and put coaches at small schools in par with coaches at big schools. "Then we may have a shot at it," Bunnell said. Mora Cruz brings the heat against the Thatcher Eagles in Tombstone on March 27.
